

Elizabeth Bubel

Sr. Associate, Community Preparedness Programs

Elizabeth Bubel is the Sr. Associate of Community Preparedness Programs at the American Red Cross National Headquarters. She brings more than 15 years of experience in non-profit program management and development both nationally in the U.S. and overseas.

Elizabeth joined the American Red Cross in 2015 and has been program manager for the Red Cross Emergency app since 2020. She believes everyone has a right to prepare for disasters and developed the vision and strategy for the Emergency app, which launched in May 2022 and empowers a diverse public to prepare, respond, and recover from climate-driven hazards.

Earlier in her career, Elizabeth worked in international development for CRS, Catholic Relief Services where she built micro-credit institutions in Cambodia and then East Timor, and HIV prevention and healthcare initiatives in various regions of China.

Elizabeth earned a Master's degree in International Affairs from Georgetown University and a Bachelor's degree in History from Northwestern University. Elizabeth is a certified Project Management Professional (PMP).
