

Ken Jones
IAEM-Alberta Director-at-Large

Ken has a lifelong passion for public safety and emergencies. His thirty-year emergency management and response career spans the public and private sectors - having worked for all three emergency services, the industrial sector, and for both provincial and municipal governments. Through this he's developed a keen understanding of diverse EM stakeholder perspectives, and brings with it wide-ranging emergency and disaster experience at both command and EOC levels.

Based in Edmonton, he presently serves as Senior Emergency Management Specialist for TransCanada's North America-wide pipeline and energy operations; and holds CEM, CBCP and safety designations.
