
Holly Tobin

Holly Tobin is the Emergency Management Analyst for Memorial University of Newfoundland.

Her career in emergency management started in 2009 and she has been an active member of IAEM since 2010. Prior to that, as a student, she worked in placements at both the provincial and federal levels of Government. She was awarded the Associate Emergency Manager designation in 2012 and is currently working towards the Certified Emergency Manager designation.

In addition to her professional work, she also supports several non-profit organizations that focus on emergency and disaster response/relief. She is a member of the Canadian Red Cross Emergency Response Team and has been deployed throughout Canada to respond to emergencies. She also leads teams internationally with Habitat for Humanity's Global Village program to build homes for low-income families, with a particular focus on areas that are recovering from natural disasters. She supports other emergency management organizations by volunteering to assist with emergency exercises or community preparedness and education events when the opportunity arises.

Holly resides in St. John's, Newfoundland - North America's oldest city and most Easterly province. She spends her free time with her family and friends and spoiling her greyhound, Ginger!
