

ABOUT THE GLOBAL PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT CERTIFICATE

By earning the IAEM Global Professional Development Certificate, you demonstrate to your employer, peers, and the people you serve that you are committed to the highest level of emergency management. You are competent in core skills and have learned the best practices from experienced emergency managers throughout the world. No matter what happens in your community, you are confident that you have the technical and leadership ability to guide your organization through the response and recovery process.

This certificate is built upon the time-honored US Professional Development Series, developed after extensive research by the Federal Emergency Management Agency. Courses, objectives and emphasis has been modified as necessary to suit international audiences.

The Certificate is available at various levels and is progressive in nature, meaning you complete the Global Core Skills training before progressing to the next level, so you can both have a plan of progress, and receive recognition along the way. This first course is described in this brochure.
